

The Center for State-led National Debt Solutions Expands Board with Six New Members

St. Petersburg, FL (March 1, 2018) – The mission of the CSNDS has always been to educate legislators and citizens alike regarding the dangers posed by the U.S. national debt and the constitutional remedies available to address the issue. In order to continue delivering on this core objective in an increasingly challenging environment, CSNDS has launched a major effort to expand its Board of Directors with nationally known figures that (1) support its mission and (2) can help attain the resources necessary to continue its mission.

To that end, we are pleased to announce the addition of six new Board members: (1) Norm Coleman, Former U.S. Senator from Minnesota, (2) George Allen, Former Governor and U.S. Senator from Virginia, (3) Ed Schafer, Former Governor of North Dakota and U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, (4) Steve Moore, Senior Fellow at the Heritage Foundation, (5) Bill Owens, Former Vice Chair of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and 4-Star Navy Admiral, and (6) the Hon. Greg S. Casey, Sr., Former Sergeant at Arms of the U.S. Senate.

Norm Coleman
Fmr. U.S. Senator, MN

George Allen
Fmr. Gov./U.S. Senator, VA

Ed Schafer
Fmr. Gov., ND; Sec of Ag.

Steve Moore
Heritage Foundation

Bill Owens
Fmr. Vice Chair, Joint Chiefs

Greg S. Casey
Fmr. Sgt. at Arms, U.S. Senate

Over the coming months, we will be adding additional Board members of the same caliber before launching a drive to attain the additional funds necessary to cover our target states. With the national debt soaring beyond twenty-one trillion dollars and Congress continuing to spend dangerously beyond its means, our educational efforts are more important than ever. The key to arriving at a common-sense solution is to educate the people and their legislators in order to arm them with the knowledge necessary to reestablish fiscal responsibility in our nation's capital.

Leading this initiative is Loren J. Enns, President of CSNDS, and primary content educator. He has spoken to hundreds of legislators and thousands of citizens across 20 states over the last 5 years. CSNDS is 501(c)(3) non-profit organization focused solely on educating the body politic and state legislators alike regarding the dangers associated with the U.S. national debt on the dire need for a concrete solution.